

Mystereee Game Plots for Kids

Created by Eric E. Everett ©2000

(828) 808-1757 | eee@ZowieEntertainment.com

Here are some mystery plots to choose from. You can also have a mystery custom-written or adapted for you with place, time, characters, and anything else you want to add. These can also be non-violent, problem-solving, or supernatural themes - even ghost stories! Age recommendation is 9-12, but varies depending on adult participation in the game with them. Small Scenes are included for players to act out for the group as they dramatize key moments in the story.

All are also available for you to host with a Kit that includes an introduction Video for players. We can also send a list of the many Mystereees for Adults. Email your questions or schedule a call to talk about any part of the Mystereee fun!

The Bruise Cruise (8 characters)

Nanci Dwoo is on board a 1950s Great Lakes cruise for fun but has been plunged into the fog. Someone got pushed overboard and there are many strange guests to suspect. There is also the burglary of precious cargo, but the dangerous presence of a large wolf is making the investigation tougher. Revenge and greed also have their say!

Curse of the Emerald Jaguar (8 characters)

Police arrived on the scene of the jewelry store burglary to find a purple smoke cloud settling over many unconscious bodies. As they revived, their memories were shrouded but what became clear was that a ring was missing - it held the power of legend and royalty from a distant country, but now was also linked to murder and doughnuts?

Animal Party Mystereee

Triple E is having a harvest party at his orchard, but all the mailed invitations to his animal guest friends were returned “Not at this address.” Where did they all go? Are they in trouble? Follow his musical adventure to figure out what happened. The story takes you around the world on the back of a whale with stops to swing in the Amazon jungle, do a penguin dance in Antarctica, stampede through Africa and ride Bigfoot's snowboard! Follow the Spirit Bear guide to uncover what’s happening so everyone can make it back to the party.

 Includes the rock musical and party activities. Versions for 2 age groups.

Popped Mystery (7 characters)

Smiley Siren was on a comeback. Her new song and provocative video were sweeping the internet. The rest of the pop-diva world was too jealous. Even stranger for a song about a murder called “Long Black Gloves.” But someone didn’t like the lyrics and Smiley froze onstage at an awards show one night, never to thaw. Awwww! It’s easy to blame the management, or other divas, but how about the fans!

Calamity In Christmastown (6 characters)

There’s trouble in the skies as Santa returns to the North Pole unconscious from reindeer test flight! The reindeer claim to not know what happened, though they did make an unexpected stop with Carolers in Brooklyn. Not everyone has been happy in Christmastown lately, including the Gingerbread Man, the Elves, and even Mrs Claus, but hurting Santa would definitely put them on the naughty list.

The Grappling Hand (7 characters)

Summer at Camp Arrowhead just got a lot more interesting once the cops showed up. The competition between campers called “The Grapple” had gotten out of hand. During the campfire ritual, a jar was presented with a hand wearing a silver ring inside, stuck to a fork. How did their life get to this level of crazy? Was it linked to the rumor of missing campers or the secret mine?

Never Go To A Dinner Party On An Island (7 characters)

An invitation to come for the weekend was enticing enough when it's the home of an eccentric billionaire, but the promise to pay one million bucks to anyone who would stay the night in the haunted mansion where a notorious crime happened was irresistible. What they didn't expect was the Alice in Wonderland theme!

Who Stole My Youth?! (6 characters)

The family has noticed lately that Grandma has not been her springy self. She no longer can recall the many tales of her wild youth and family antics. It seems to have started around Valentine's Day when she received various odd gifts and visits from strangers. The family members are all suspect for various selfish reasons, but perhaps this time one has gone too far! Evidence points to supernatural intervention from all sides! Will Grandma recover? When she does, will she write them out of her will?

Mad Monkey Mystery

Fritz O'Nelly has met an untimely end. He was co-owner of the restaurant Bernard's with Bernard Bower. Fritz loved to travel and his favorite hobby was the study of animals. His latest (and last) favorite was the orangutan. It became apparent his hobby was becoming more of an obsession. Fritz wanted to turn the restaurant into an animal sanctuary with different animals in each room and a small zoo in the back. The town of Ridgefield didn't exactly see eye to eye with Fritz on the plan, neither did Bernard.

Arts School Awards

A stormy November night rained down on the city, rather dark too, probably because it was night. Yet things were almost festive downtown at the Spectral School of the Arts. This was a college for those with a gifted sense of color and it brought students there from all over the world. Tonight, school President Kaleidoscope is hosting the awards for the Elfstone Gallery Artistes du Fromage Show, the biggest art show of the year. But threatening notes sent to the president have been appearing all week. Who could be behind them and why? Watch the drama unfold like you would never expect!

Superheroes

The Mayor of New York throws a party for all the superheroes. During his speech he starts slowing down like a robot on bad batteries, until he becomes frozen. Can the heroes revive him? Who could have done such a deed? Was it Dr. Freeze? And why the Mayor? Tonight? Race through the streets of Manhattan and dark alleys to discover whodunnit before everyone becomes frozen statues like Liberty!

The Lost Race of the Cree

Lights go out during a lecture at the American Academy of Sciences in New York City. A strange language is heard spoken quickly in the darkness. When the light returns, the famous scientist that was about to speak, Nancy Blockstone, has vanished! Luckily, Ms. Blockstone has been under investigation by the Army and their police are already there.

Here's what they know so far: Nancy Blockstone was going to speak about an ancient race called the Cree that she had been studying secretly for the Army for 20 years. The rumor is the Cree were an ancient race of aliens that helped populate Earth during the first civilizations of man. Ancient cities and laboratories have been rumored to have been found and the Cree were VERY advanced. There are even new reports of a strange blue energy source or weapon that was discovered. But what happened to the Cree? What did Nancy know? And why and how did she just suddenly vanish with so many witnesses?

Who Gave Mickey a Mickey?

It is Halloween, the night before the Cartoon Awards at a pre-awards party at Mickey Mouse's castle in Disneyland. All the cartoon companies have sent the cartoonist who created their characters or the actors that do their voice in a costume of that character to receive their possible awards. At the dinner Mickey ran into the dining hall and screamed "SOMEBODY HAS POISONED ME!" and suddenly fell over headfirst into a big cake on the dessert table. Who set this giant mouse trap and why? Will Mickey recover to name the guilty one?

Razzmatazz Toy Hotel

The Lombardi Hotel in New York City has a long history of interesting characters that have stayed there, but it has fallen on hard times and so it has recently been bought by the Razzmatazz Toy Company to turn it into one of their factory stores. The President, Francesca, is having a party to celebrate and invite all the hotel workers who are in fear of losing their jobs, but not as much as they fear the stories of a hotel ghost...What's that?? There's a bomb at the party?! Better hope it's not a Jack-In-The-Box!

Mafia Caper

Joey Scrubatoni, the toy-making billionaire, was found dead at a party last night. The Police suspect foul play. Joey called 911 and left this message at 12:01 a.m., " Help. Ha-ah HAAA... It's too funny!...but it's not, I'm having a heart attack I think...oh HA HA HA HA! He's killin' me! Ooh, he's SO BAD!!!! AHHH!" Police arrived to find the house was shut tight. When they broke in, they found all the guests passed out near the doors and windows. The air inside was thick with knockout gas, as it cleared, the guests awoke. Unfortunately, the guests were so knocked out, they can't remember much at all of their recent lives. How will they solve this crazy mystery?

Ask for a list of Mysteries for Adults as well.
Tell me YOUR IDEAS and I can write a NEW Mystereee story for you!!

Contact Eric Everett
eee@ZowieEntertainment.com | (828) 808-1757